About Sydney Community Foundation

Sydney Community Foundation connects individuals, families, groups, corporations, government and non-profit organisations to causes that matter to the Greater Sydney community.

Sydney Community Foundation was established in 2004 to provide an endowment for the people of Greater Sydney to fund charitable causes in perpetuity. We are an independent, not-for-profit, public ancillary fund that uses the community foundation model developed over the last 100 years in cities such as Cleveland, Boston, New York and Vancouver as a means of revitalising local communities through effective charitable giving. In Australia, it is a relatively new model of philanthropy, with Melbourne Community Foundation the first established in 1997.

Under the legal framework of Sydney Community Foundation, philanthropic sub-funds are established and monies pooled and invested. By combining gifts in this way, our donors can build an endowment that continues to grow over time. Income generated is used to make grants and build innovative partnerships to support charitable projects that deliver constructive outcomes for the people of Sydney.

Our strategic goals

Sydney Community Foundation adopted a three-year strategic plan for the period 2009-2011, which identified goals across five themes:

- 1 BUILD CAPACITY
 - 2 UNDERSTAND NEEDS
 - 3 DEVELOP PARTNERSHIPS
 - 4 GROW GIVING
 - 5 SUPPORT COMMUNITIES

In 2011-12, the Board developed an operational framework with four key areas of focus:

- 1 INFRASTRUCTURE AND PROCESSES
- 2 BOARD COMPOSITION AND GOVERNANCE
- 3 BUSINESS MODEL AND MARKETING
- 4 FUNDRAISING

Report from the Chair

Rosalind Strong AM

Sydney Community Foundation (SCF) encourages communities of donors to invest in projects where the need is greatest. I pay tribute to our community – our Board, our staff, our partners, and our donors; you have worked alongside us to build a legacy for Greater Sydney.

“ In 2011-12 we have made an impact in all areas of our strategic plan.

The Board and staff worked across four key operational areas to build the capacity of SCF through: Infrastructure and processes; Board composition and governance; Business modelling and marketing; and Fundraising. In particular we have invested in a new on-line platform to improve our donor and grantmaking relationships, and have had the great privilege of working with Rob McLean to analyse our business model.

We have grown giving to build the SCF endowment significantly over the past 12 months and increased the number of donors. We have helped build capacity and support communities across Greater Sydney by directing grants totaling approximately $500,000 to 32 community organisations for projects that support the most vulnerable and those most at risk of social exclusion. These innovative projects have provided direct benefits to more than 13,000 families across Sydney. SCF's Sydney Women's Fund (SWF) made or leveraged grants of $127,000 to grassroots community organisations working on critical issues for women and girls in Sydney. Under the Belonging theme, we initiated the first round of SCF priority grants with six of the seven projects funded and we established several new funds including the First Seeds, Kids in Philanthropy, Disability anti-discrimination Fund and a number of immediate impact funds.

The launch of the ground-breaking Portrait of Women and Girls in Greater Sydney (The Portrait) has helped us better understand needs by providing an evidence-base to direct the investment of philanthropic funds and a focused agenda for SWF fundraising. The Portrait has opened and strengthened connections with peak bodies, with all three tiers of government, with other not-for-profits, private foundations and other community foundations, advisory committees and individual donors.

Using The Portrait's evidence-base, and building on connections made through our SWF grants program, we consulted local women leaders in Liverpool and Warwick Farm about developing an innovative place-based strategy for long-term philanthropic investment in Warwick Farm, a community that is amongst the most disadvantaged in Australia.

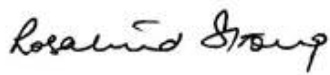

BUILD CAPACITY UNDERSTAND NEEDS DEVELOP PARTNERSHIPS GROW GIVING SUPPORT COMMUNITIES

In 2011-12 we identified, developed and nurtured relationships with key strategic, operational, and project-based partners. Our grantee partners continue to inspire us, provide us with advice and with links we otherwise may not have, to the communities of Greater Sydney.

I wish to thank Cambooya and the Vincent Fairfax Family Foundation for the generous provision of our CBD office; Barclays Capital for providing the funding for The Portrait; the Lord Mayor and the Council of the City of Sydney for hosting our Board and Annual General Meetings; Australian Women Donors Network for the opportunity to be part of the Abigail Disney visit, the Victorian Women's Trust for the Jackson Katz visit; and White Ribbon Foundation for joining us in the Jackson Katz Event at Parliament House.

Much of the credit for the work outlined in this report goes to SCF staff. The Board joins me in thanking Kristi Mansfield, Heather Thomson and Felicity Leitch, and former staff members Jo Hatton and Belinda Morrissey, for their passion and work for the Foundation. We thank former Board members Moksha Watts and Gambhir Watts; and former Deputy Chair, Sally Treeby, for their commitment at Board level and continuing support of Sydney Community Foundation. I would like to thank all Board colleagues for their support in 2011-12.

As we move toward our 10th anniversary, I am extremely proud of the achievements of Sydney Community Foundation. Yet, we still have so much more to do when, in 2012, in one of the world's richest countries, many people in Sydney still have lives constrained by poverty, poor health, disability or random misfortune.

Rosalind Strong AM
Chair, Sydney Community Foundation

 We strive to build sustainable and innovative partnerships that make Sydney a better and more inclusive place for all who live here.

Report from the Executive Director Kristi Mansfield

In 2011-12 our focus has been to strengthen SCF's internal capacity to deliver greater impact for the Sydney community.

We have done this in two ways. Firstly we have invested in infrastructure to streamline how we work, improving our capacity to respond to our donors and community partners. This investment comprised a new donor relationship management system with updated capabilities for database management, financial reporting, online giving, event management and email communications. Our donor base has grown quickly in the last 12 months and this investment allows us to support some of the fastest growing giving circles in the philanthropic sector, the Sydney Women's Fund, Kids In Philanthropy and the First Seeds Fund.

Secondly, we have enhanced the way we work in communities by collaborating with individuals, community leaders, not for profit organisations, businesses and corporates, local councils, service providers, schools and law enforcement agencies to bring about change from within the community itself.

In South Western Sydney we have been particularly successful with this consultative model in both Fairfield and Liverpool communities and will further develop this model as we work with the Warwick Farm Community on our place-based philanthropy program in 2013 and beyond.

We have also enhanced how we work with our donors and collaborators by initiating projects where a need has been identified and bringing together funding partners to support it. Recognising widows as one of the most excluded groups in the community, we developed a pilot project supporting Widows Planning Ahead with telephone support, mentoring and a free financial referral service implemented by our partner Life Circle and funded by one of our key donors.

Finally, we have enhanced the way we work with our partners to deliver philanthropic investment for one-off special projects. SCF sought partnerships with other foundations for Twenty stories, twenty lives and for the first time will collaborate with Australian Communities Foundation, the Lord Mayor's Charitable Fund, Snow Foundation and LotteryWest in our first truly national project.

I invite you to join us as we build on the momentum of the community foundation movement in Sydney.

The Portrait

PROVIDE AN EVIDENCE-BASE TO DIRECT PHILANTHROPIC INVESTMENT IN WOMEN AND GIRLS IN GREATER SYDNEY.

In March 2012, Sydney Community Foundation's Sydney Women's Fund launched the Portrait of Women and Girls in Greater Sydney, the first comprehensive view of the status of women and girls in our city.

The Portrait was developed to:

- Inform and educate the community of Greater Sydney about the greatest, and often hidden, areas of need for the women and girls of Sydney;
- Engage leaders from all sectors to make commitments to support women and girls; and
- Develop a long-term agenda for investment in women and girls to help address their most pressing challenges.

The Portrait was funded by Barclays over two years and has allowed the Sydney Women's Fund to strategically direct grants toward carefully selected, grassroots initiatives to benefit Sydney's most vulnerable women and girls.

The Portrait was made possible through support of our partners; Barclays, Australia Street, Mahlab Media, Straight Talk, Women in Project Management and the Sydney Women's Fund Advisory Council, particularly Emily Fuller, Cynthia Whelan, Josephine Majewski and Sue Linney, and our Patron Lucy Brogden.

Place-based philanthropy in Warwick Farm

BUILD CAPACITY THROUGH LONG-TERM INVESTMENT IN DISADVANTAGED COMMUNITIES IN WESTERN SYDNEY.

In May 2012, The Portrait connected Sydney Community Foundation to the outstanding leadership of Christine Lutterall and Pat Hall at Liverpool Neighbourhood Connections and their many collaborators including Mary Cuneen who are working tirelessly to create opportunities for women and children in Warwick Farm.

Warwick Farm is a small community in the Liverpool area with approximately 3,000 residents. The community is amongst the most disadvantaged in Greater Sydney and is characterised by generational unemployment, drugs and crime, homelessness and food insecurity.

An initial $5,000 grant from the Sydney Women's Fund has employed part time staff in the Warwick Farm Neighbourhood Centre new social enterprise café, Peppers Place.

This small project was the beginning of many conversations with the community and the resolve of Sydney Community Foundation's Board to further invest in the remarkable work of the women leaders in Warwick Farm and their vision for a change in their community.

Our partners in this project are Liverpool Neighbourhood Connections, Barclays, Sydney Women's Fund Advisory Board, First Seeds Fund Advisory Board and our generous seed donors Kerry Stubbs, Elena Wise and an anonymous donor.

Kids in Philanthropy

BUILD SOCIAL AWARENESS, SOCIAL CONSCIENCE AND A PRACTICE OF GIVING IN KIDS, FOR KIDS.

Sydney Community Foundation is proud to facilitate and provide support to a number of newly established giving circles. Kids In Philanthropy is one of the funds launched this year that has captured the imagination of hundreds of families who were looking for an easy way to get involved in strategic giving.

Kids In Philanthropy aims to raise awareness in children of the poverty and need in Australia's disadvantaged communities.

Following extensive community consultation in Fairfield supported by Sydney Community Foundation, the Kids In Philanthropy fund will provide a grant to Learning Links to deliver a Technology and Learning program for children aged 8 to 12 years across four primary schools in Fairfield.

Our partners in this project are Dr Catriona Wallace and the Kids In Philanthropy Advisory Council, Fairfield City Council, Canley Vale Public School, Lansvale Public School, Canley Heights Public School and Bonnyrigg Public School, Learning Links and the National Centre of Indigenous Excellence.

Our achievements

Events and media

INCREASE VISIBILITY AND ADVOCACY FOR THE COMMUNITY FOUNDATION MODEL OF SOCIAL CHANGE PHILANTHROPY.

Sydney Community Foundation was involved in more than 24 events in 2011-12, raising awareness of critical social issues and increasing SCF's visibility through a range of PR and media opportunities. These included local and national radio interviews, print media articles, opinion blogs and various digital and social media channels.

We focused our advocacy on women and girls by bringing people together to explore important issues in events marking International Women's Day, Equal Pay Day and as the Victorian Women's Trust's partner for anti-violence champion Jackson Katz during his visit to Sydney in February. We were a key partner in Abigail Disney's visit to Australia and initiated a celebratory event So You Made Partner for women who made Partner in Sydney's law and accounting firms securing funding from the Nelson Meers Foundation.

In the media, we spoke about the need for community investment in broad ranging issues from social inclusion, social justice and homelessness to education and employment.

Our partners were diverse and included Barclays, Campaign and Communications Group, Julia Baird, Australian Women Donors Network, Philanthropy Australia, Commonwealth Bank, Macquarie Bank, Ernst & Young, Nelson Meers Foundation, the Tilbury Hotel, Victorian Women's Trust, White Ribbon Foundation, Indigo Express Fund and the National Centre of Indigenous Excellence.

Twenty years, twenty stories

RAISE COMMUNITY AWARENESS OF THE DISABILITY DISCRIMINATION ACT AND CELEBRATE 20 YEARS OF LEGISLATION THAT HAS REFORMED SERVICES AND INCREASED ACCESS AND INCLUSION FOR AUSTRALIANS WITH A DISABILITY.

Sydney Community Foundation (SCF), Australian Human Rights Commission and the Disability Discrimination Commissioner are working collaboratively on the Twenty Years: Twenty Stories to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Disability Discrimination Act.

10 grants of up to $5,000.00 to make a short 3-5 minute film will be awarded for stories about individuals or organisations who have used the Disability Discrimination Act to change the lives of Australians with a disability.

Sydney Community Foundation secured seed funding from AHRC, Telstra and FaHCSIA and brokered additional funding support from other philanthropic foundations throughout Australia. The project brings the philanthropic, community, corporate and government sectors together to create a unique partnership.

Our partners are Australian Human Rights Commission, Telstra, DLA Piper, Commonwealth Bank of Australia, Department of Families, Housing, Community Services & Indigenous Affairs, Suncorp, Australian Communications Exchange, Media Access Australia, Australian Communities Foundation, Lord Mayors Charitable Fund, Lotteries West and Snow Foundation.

Her portfolio includes the Bupa Health Foundation – Bupa's independent charity organisation, which aims to improve the health and health care of all Australians. To date the Foundation has invested close to $20M into health research and programs.

Justine has 20 years diverse experience in the health sector as an academic, researcher, strategic planner, policy-maker and senior manager. She held senior executive positions in population and public health, corporate communications, marketing, health policy and reform in public, private and non-for-profit organisations.

Justine also has extensive experience as a consultant and senior adviser in public health, issues management, health and corporate communications.

HELEN WISEMAN

Helen is a Principal with the Women Leading team at Executive Central, believing strongly in enabling women to achieve leadership positions in their organisations, their communities and in public life.

Helen's approach is to inspire the people she coaches to get out of their comfort zones, to reach for new levels of performance whilst retaining their sense of meaning and authenticity. Helen understands the 'peacock and feather duster days' of contemporary work life and as such she is practical and keeps it real by injecting humor along the way.

Helen qualified as a Chartered Accountant and has nearly 25-years experience working in professional services firms including as a former partner in a Big 4 accounting firm. Helen is also a non-executive director serving on commercial and non-profit boards.

Whilst managing her busy corporate career, Helen trained as a volunteer crisis telephone counselor, obtained hypnotherapy qualifications and completed a Psychology Degree.

Helen is deeply committed to serving the Australian community and is Chair of SHINE for Kids, a director of Relationships Australia, Sydney Community Foundation, War Widows Guild, and the Melanoma Institute of Australia. She has a keen interest in social justice issues.

Helen recently featured in the inaugural Australian Enriched List, regularly speaks at women's leadership events and appears in media interviews.

Our partners

Sydney Community Foundation greatly values the relationships we have developed and nurtured with our partners, stakeholders and most importantly our donors. Through these relationships we have been able to make connections, identify communities that are most in need of our help and develop projects that have made real impact on the lives of our most vulnerable.
